

Three Rock Capital Global Macro Program Added to Altegris Macro Strategy Mutual Fund

Dublin, Ireland, March 22, 2016

Three Rock Capital Management is pleased to announce the addition of its Global Macro Program to the Altegris Macro Strategy Fund (Ticker: MCRAX) portfolio. Three Rock Capital's discretionary Global Macro Program was launched in December 2012, with a track record dating back to January 2009, and has delivered positive returns that were uncorrelated to most traditional long only indices and some alternative indices, in each of the last six years.

"We are delighted to have our program become a part of the Altegris family of mutual funds," said Ciaran Kane, CEO of Three Rock Capital. "We are confident in our ability to continue to provide a potential source of alpha for our clients now and into the future"

Three Rock Capital's Global Macro Program is a discretionary strategy that trades liquid exchange-traded futures and is managed by the firm's CIO, Conor O'Mara. Risk is concentrated in a small number of trades across 4 sectors: foreign exchange, precious metals, equity indices and interest rates. The program's primary focus is developed foreign exchange markets. Utilising a robust investment process and strong risk management skills, the program's central strategy is to anticipate trend development and pro-actively manage trades within those trends once they develop.
